LAST UPDATE: 02-FEB-2026 16:22 UTC

We hacked the Senate Armed Services Committee in 2013.
We found something we weren't looking for.
Now we're getting paid for it.

LET'S BE CLEAR: We're in this for the money. ASTRA blackmailed them for $1 million in 2008 and got a comfortable retirement on a Greek island. We found his archive plus 47 additional documents from DIA, JWICS, NSA, CIA, GCHQ, and SCIF networks. We're not idealists. We're contractors. But at least we're upfront about it.

CURRENT STATUS MEDIA COMING

Everybody knows about this. The aerospace industry knows. The intelligence community knows. Congress knows. The media knows they're supposed to ignore it. But the public doesn't know. Not yet.

We are verifying 47 additional documents obtained from:

- Defense Intelligence Agency (DIA) classified networks
- Joint Worldwide Intelligence Communications System (JWICS)
- NSA Special Source Operations (SSO) databases
- CIA Directorate of Operations communications
- GCHQ intercepts
- Sensitive Compartmented Information Facilities (SCIF) documentation
- Special Access Program (SAP) budget allocations

KESSLER UPDATE: We located Daniel Kessler in January 2025. Found dead February 3, 2025. His assistant Jennifer Martinez vanished same night. We know who killed him. Jennifer was Sarah Martinez's mother—our investigative journalist who's been covering the Sealy Twins case. Now we know why she was so invested. We are close to Kessler's video footage. Did you know the nut job made a movie? 47+ hours documenting every second of March 17, 1995. Everything they spent thirty years hiding.

LEGAL VICTORY: We got it, you assholes. Found the 1997 eminent domain letter from DOD Inspector General and the Consortium's insane response claiming religious artifact protection. Just submitted both documents to Stanford Law Review for publication. Twenty-eight years of legal warfare documented. They've been fighting this in courts since 1997. Now everyone's going to know.

We have contacted the following for comment:

- Lockheed Martin Corporation
- Boeing Defense, Space & Security
- Dassault Aviation
- BAE Systems
- Raytheon Technologies
- Northrop Grumman

Responses pending. See MEDIA COMING below.

Phase 1 is published: The ASTRA Archive - 89 documents proving everything (1987-2008)

Phase 2 is ready. Current operations. Active personnel. Bank accounts.

Phase 3 is loaded. Names. Dates. Financial networks. Kessler's footage.

The clock is ticking.

THE 28-YEAR LEGAL WAR (1997-2025)

This isn't new. The Consortium has been fighting the US government in court since 1997. Twenty-eight years of sealed proceedings. Classified motions. Secret judgments. All hidden from public view.

We found it all. Every filing. Every response. Every judicial ruling. The entire paper trail of a legal war most people don't even know exists.

1997 Inspector General Demand - Eminent Domain

Department of Defense - Office of Inspector General

DATE: 15 March 1997 | CLASSIFICATION: UNCLASSIFIED (NOW)

RE: Demand for Surrender of Unidentified Aerial Phenomenon Artifact Under Eminent Domain Authority

Two years after Mitchell's death, DOD Inspector General formally demands artifact surrender. Cites national security interest, eminent domain authority over materials of potential extraterrestrial origin, federal jurisdiction over objects recovered from public airspace. Thirty-day compliance deadline: April 15, 1997.

CONSORTIUM DID NOT COMPLY.

1997 Consortium Response - Religious Artifact Defense

Consortium Legal Counsel - First Amendment Protection Claim

DATE: 14 April 1997 | STATUS: SUBMITTED TO STANFORD LAW REVIEW (FEB 2025)

RE: Opposition to Eminent Domain Based on First Amendment Religious Freedom

LEGAL ARGUMENT: Artifact "fell from heaven" onto unincorporated public land. Consortium members constitute witnesses to "celestial event of divine significance." Formation of ad hoc religious organization to preserve and study "sacred object." First Amendment protects custody of religious artifacts. Eminent domain cannot compel surrender without violating Free Exercise Clause.

PRECEDENT CITED: Church of Lukumi Babalu Aye v. City of Hialeah (1993)

JUDICIAL RESPONSE: Case sealed. Moved to classified docket. Proceedings ongoing under CARDINAL-PHOENIX special access restrictions.

Yes, you read that right. They claimed it's a fucking religious artifact and the government can't take it because First Amendment. And somehow it's been working for 28 years.

Stanford Law Review - Submitted February 6, 2025

SUBMISSION DATE: 06-FEB-2025 | STATUS: UNDER PEER REVIEW

TITLE: "Religious Artifact Defense to Eminent Domain: Twenty-Eight Years of Sealed Litigation Over Objects of Celestial Origin"

ABSTRACT: This article examines unprecedented sealed litigation spanning 1997-2025 between the US Department of Defense and a consortium of eight aerospace corporations regarding custody of materials recovered March 17, 1995. When DOD Inspector General demanded surrender under eminent domain, consortium counsel argued First Amendment protection based on ad hoc religious formation and "sacred witness" status to celestial event...

PRIMARY SOURCES: Inspector General demand letter (1997), Consortium legal response (1997), sealed court filings obtained through unauthorized access to JWICS networks, 28 years of classified judicial proceedings.

We're making this public. Academic scrutiny. Legal analysis. Let scholars decide if corporations can form religions to protect crashed UFOs from government seizure.

THE AUDIT TRAIL: Twenty-eight years of legal warfare generates documentation. Lots of it. Budget allocations for legal fees. Payments to outside counsel. Sealed settlement attempts. Judicial orders. Every classified motion leaves a paper trail in JWICS communications. We have it all. Every byte. That's what we're verifying now.

WHY WE'RE DOING THIS

Money. We already said it. We're contractors. ASTRA made $1 million in 2008. We have better documentation, better sources, better leverage. We want $50 million.

But we're also pissed off.

Commander Sarah Mitchell's daughters were six years old when their mother died. They're adults now. Thirty years later, they still don't know what really killed her. They were told mechanical failure. Flight data proves that's a lie.

Daniel Kessler spent fourteen years in hiding because he documented the truth. They killed him anyway. February 3, 2025. "Apparent suicide." His assistant Jennifer Martinez-Sarah Martinez's mother, our investigative journalist—vanished the same night. We know who gave the order. We have the communications.

Twenty-eight years of legal warfare. Religious artifact defense. First Amendment protection for crashed UFOs. And it's been working because everything is sealed. Classified. Hidden from public scrutiny.

Not anymore.

We submitted the 1997 legal documents to Stanford Law Review. Academic publication. Legal analysis. Public record. Let scholars decide if corporations can form religions to protect extraterrestrial technology from government seizure.

We contacted every consortium member for comment. Lockheed. Boeing. Dassault. BAE. Raytheon. Northrop. Their responses—or refusals to respond—will be published in full.

The clock is ticking. March 17, 2025. Thirty years since Mitchell's death.

Pay us. Or we release everything.

Your move.
